Criminal Law	T. Murphy/Ido Kilovat	Deals with the questions of what conduct society punishes through a criminal code and of the appropriate punishment for the forbidden conduct. In this context the course includes an analysis of the theories of punishment, the definitions of various crimes, the defenses available to one charged with criminal conduct, and the limitations placed by the Constitution on governmental power in the criminal law area. Throughout the course, special emphasis is placed on the legislature's role in creating statutes alongside the judiciary's corresponding ty role in interpreting those statutes.

Criminal Procedure: Investigations	I. Kilovaty	Concerned with the legal steps through which a criminal proceeding passes, commencing with the initial investigation of a crime and concluding with the release of the defendant. Does not deal exclusively with constitutional problems, although considerable time is spent on them. Recent Supreme Court decisions receive special emphasis. Criminal Procedure does not deal with criminal tactics or with many of the special problems relating to the introduction of evidence at the trial.
Criminal Sentencing	K. Eaton	This course will introduce students to key issues in U.S. sentencing law, theory, and policy. The course will cover the basic elements of the federal sentencing guidelines and their practical application, as well as the statutory sentencing factors that all judges are required to consider. Sentencing strategies and best practices will be addressed, as will the topics of capital cases, sentencing options, the presentence investigation process, aggravating and mitigating sentencing factors, the use of expert witnesses, preserving issues for appeal, and mandatory minimum sentences.
Employee Benefits and Compensation	J. McGuire	Benefits issues affect virtually all employees at some point in their career. This course will introduce you to the complex and dynamic legal framework governing employee benefits, with a focus on ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code. We will discuss both retirement and welfare plans in detail, including the spectrum of plan types and the document and administrative requirements attendant to each. We will also dive into the roles of the plan sponsor and plan fiduciaries and their duties to plan participants and the federal government, including the handling of claims and disputes and reporting and disclosure requirements. Since employee benefit plans are frequently the subject of high-profile legislation and litigation, we will also discuss litigation trends and public policy issues.
Entertainment Law	D. Pieper	Examines the legal principles and relationships of the entertainment industry, with a primary emphasis on the music industry; provides an introduction to the practice of entertainment law and the negotiation of entertainment contracts; highlights a variety of legal and practical issues that arise when representing clients in the entertainment industry.
Environmental Law	S. Gosman	Devoted primarily to the legal problems related to the environment. Included is consideration of environmental impact in public and private decision making.
Essential Legal Research	S. Probst	This course covers the research techniques, books, and databases essential to practicing law. Skills developed include creating a research plan to solve specific practice problems, identifying and locating all of the case law, regulations, and statutes on a question in a jurisdiction and determining their current status through later citation, accessing government documents, assessing what statutes and regulations are in force at a given time, locating or creating legislative histories, locating foreign law, locating international law, determining how best to use treatises, monographs, and journals, and developing elementary skills in finding and utilizing materials and resources from other disciplines, such as medicine, science, or the social sciences.

Student Coordinating Attorney (See Notes)	Clinic	The School of Law recognizes the educational value of placements under the supervision of licensed, experienced attorneys, and offers students the possibility of public service learning opportunity serving as a student coordinating attorney for 2-3 credits of ungraded credit if approved by the designated Faculty Supervisor. This option shall be available only to a student with a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0 who has successfully completed 30 hours of Law School classes including Professional Responsibility, and who has obtained and submitted at least one recommendation from a faculty member who has had that student in at least one class in the past 12 months. A student coordinating attorney is a pro-bono position involving exposure to real world situations, involving some aspect of public service, where a lawyer's expertise and insights will be called for and can be observed. Placement is restricted to the courses offered in the all of the clinics offered at the law school. This position covers an entire semester (15 weeks during the spring and fall, and 10-12 weeks during the summer). For a two-credit student coordinating attorney position, the average work load must be no less than 8 hours per week in the fall and spring, or 10 hours per week in the summer. For a three-credit student coordinating attorney position, the average work load would be no less than 12 hours per week in the fall and spring, or 15 hours per week in the summer. Application required and must be completed in writing and delivered to the Faculty Supervisor no later than October 15 of the preceding semester for a spring semester student coordinating attorney position. An introduction to actual trial work and trial techniques through simulated exercises and the
Trial Advocacy ULW: Advanced Contract Drafting	T. Brooks & Staff P. Pesek	conduct of a mock trial. Advanced Contract Drafting is an upper-level course that teaches basic practical contract skills by having students work "in role" as lawyers undertaking various contract drafting tasks in a series of exercises. The course will be taught by an Adjunct Professor, who is a retired General Counsel with significant experience in drafting, editing, and negotiating thousands of contracts. While the skills taught will be basic, they will also be translatable to more sophisticated contracts. The course will feature lectures and class discussions regarding the various components of a contract, and in-class contract issue-spotting and drafting exercises, with an emphasis on the drafting exercises. Students will learn how to structure and format each type of contract, write to maximize brevity and clarity, and allocate risk between the parties to the agreement. All drafting exercises will receive feedback from the instructor. Grading will be on the basis of the written drafting assignments and class participation.

	C. Goforth E. Esterbrook	ULW-Business Drafting is an advanced writing course that takes students through a number of writing assignments. It is geared at teaching students to produce prescriptive writing, as oppose to predicting how the law would apply or persuading a reader about how the law should apply. This class therefore requires students to use information that they have gained in other classes, notably Business Organizations, and use it in drafting appropriate documents ranging from organizational forms, to documents describing how a business it to be operated, to commercial contracts. Students will also work on professionally communicating with various constituents such as clients and other attorneys about the contents of and rationale behind drafting choices in these documents. Prerequisite Law 4294 Business Organizations. Students will draft core pretrial documents, including a complaint, a motion to dismiss, and a motion for summary judgment, while engaging with a complex civil record drawn from actual federal court filings. Course features advanced drafting and editing strategies, personalized writing feedback, and instruction on local and federal rules.
ULW: Climate Change	S. Gosman	This course concerns the law and policy of climate change, the environmental issue that many consider to be the most important—and difficult—facing our generation. How has the legal framework responded to the immense challenge of climate change? What does the future hold? We will begin by reviewing the state of the science. We will also explore public perceptions of the risks of climate change, and seek to understand the ongoing politics surrounding the issue. With this foundation, the course will then turn to international efforts to control climate change through the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and the Kyoto Protocol. Next, the course will turn to domestic law and policy. We will discuss regulatory efforts at the national, regional, state, and local levels, such as air emission controls, cap-and-trade schemes, carbon taxes, and renewable energy incentives. Finally, the course will consider other types of approaches, including common law suits, disclosure, and consumer action.
ULW: Federal Appellate Litigation I (Tentative)	T. Gray	The Course will focus on brief writing and oral advocacy for students who would appear before state or federal courts of appeal or supreme courts.
ULW: Journal Writing	K. Nuckolls	Food Law & Policy introduces students to the complex system of law and regulation that governs the food system. Emphasis is on fundamental concepts of food law administered and enforced principally by the Food & Drug Administration and the US Department of Agriculture. Current topics in food regulation and policy formulation are also discussed. Recommended for Staff Editors on the Journal of Food Law & Policy
	S. Clowney	This course will examine the role of the American legal system in creating and maintaining racial categories. The intellectual goal is to think about how (and why) courts, legislatures, and local communities established racial hierarchies and how those decisions continue to reverberate through lives of modern Americans. Some of the areas of law that will be examined include criminal justice, education, housing, and the formation of family relationships
White Collar Crime	A. Williams	This course covers selected substantive and procedural areas of importance in "white-collar" criminal practice. A portion of the class will be devoted to the study of certain statutes and their applications, including examinations of mail and wire fraud, conspiracy, false statements and money laundering prosecutions. We will also cover subjects of particular concern to prosecutors and defense counsel in "white-collar" or business crime cases, including investigative and grand jury practices, privileges applicable in a corporate setting, immunity, plea bargaining, cooperation agreements, and the interplay between civil and criminal proceedings.
Wills, Trusts, and Estates	S. Clowney	This is the study of the traditional areas of wills and trusts (intestate and testate succession). The trusts area includes both the private trust and the charitable trust. Taxation problems are not covered in depth but are instead reserved for the Federal Estate & Gift Taxation course.

LL.M. Program in Ag & Food Law Courses Open to JD Students Fall 2024 Class
		Descriptions.
Course Title	Professor	Course Description
Agriculture & the Environment	C. Kelley	One of Professor Kelley's signature LL.M. courses, Agriculture and the Environment examines the impact that agricultural production has on the environment. This policy-oriented course examines the tensions between the need to produce food and fiber efficiently and the concern for sustainability and the protection of our natural resources. As global perspective is included.
Agricultural Water Law	L. Bernadett	This course, taught by California water law attorney Lauren Bernadett provides a study of the basic legal principles applicable to water rights through a consideration of water rights for agricultural use. This course is primarily an online, asynchronous course, but includes three or four synchronous meetings on Thursday afternoons to allow class discussion and Q&A with the professor. These meetings will be remote via Zoom.
Business, Human Rights & Corporate Social Responsibility in the Food/Ag Sector	U. Ewelukwa	Professor Ewelukwa Ofodile explores the business-human rights nexus within the food and agricultural sector using relevant case studies. The course introduces students to the linkages between business and human rights from a variety of legal, regulatory, and policy perspectives.
Farmed Animal Welfare	L. Manning	This course, taught remotely by Lauren Manning, presents an examination of the legal and policy issues involved in determining welfare standards for animals raised for food. In addition to exploring the lack of federal animal welfare standards and introducing humane slaughter laws, state law standards and so-called "ag gag" laws are discussed. Private certifications are also addressed. Policy discussions welcome all range of views.
Food, Farming and Sustainability	S. Schneider	This course provides a survey of the complex legal topics that make up the body of agricultural law: how and why is agriculture treated differently than other industries? The course covers many of the traditional areas of agricultural law with a focus on current issues of significance. It is taught by LL.M. Program Director and W.H. Enfield Professor of Law Susan Schneider.

Food Law & Policy	S. Schneider	This course, taught by Susan Schneider introduces the network of laws that frame our food system and explores how that system impacts us all. An overview of regulation by both the Food & Drug Administration and the USDA is provided. Law and policy considerations are discussed considering current issues.
The Right to Food	U. Ewelukwa	Taught by Professor Uche Ewelukwa Ofodile, E.J. Ball Professor of Law, this course provides an overview of the historical development of the right to food; evaluates the rights, obligations and responsibilities of rights-holders and duty-bearers of the right to food; and examines the legal and non-legal mechanisms that are increasingly used to adjudicate the right to food.
