International applicants to the LL.M. Program must submit the following:

- (1) Each applicant must prepare and submit a statement indicating why he or she is interested in studying agricultural and food law in the United States. This can include the ways in which past education and experience have prepared the applicant for advanced law studies and the type of position the applicant hopes to assume upon completion of these studies.
- (2) A current resume or curricular vitae.
- (3) A completed Application for Admission for International Students.
- (4) Evidence of receipt of the Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) degree, the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree, or a comparable degree from an accredited law school or law department.
- (5) International students whose native language is not English must meet the English proficiency requirements for international admissions set by the University of Arkansas Graduate School. Additional evidence of language proficiency may be required.
- (6) Transcripts from all colleges and universities attended, even if a degree was not received. Transcripts must be sent from the institution directly to the Director of the LL.M. Program, and must bear the official seal of the institution, be signed by the Registrar or his delegate, and be notarized or authenticated by a local office. An English translation must be appended and similarly sealed, signed and notarized or authenticated. Transcripts not received directly from a college or university cannot be accepted. Transcripts should explain the school's grading system and indicate academic standing in some manner, preferably by class rank or designation of honors achieved. Law transcripts should indicate each subject taken and the academic marks received in each subject.
- (7) Two letters of recommendation must be sent directly from those who write them to the Director of the LL.M. Program. It is recommended that at least one letter be from a member of the applicant's law faculty and that at least one be from a judge or practicing lawyer. The application form requires the names of two additional references.
- (8) A completed University of Arkansas Supplemental and Financial Information form. Each applicant must provide evidence of available financial support in the form of specific documentation of funds available for transfer to the United States to cover each year of study at the University of Arkansas.

International students admitted to the LL.M. Program in Agricultural and Food Law will enter the United States on either an F-1 Student Visa or a J-1 Exchange Visitor visa. The U.S. Immigration Certificate of Eligibility (Form I-20) will be forwarded to the student as soon as the completed and signed University of Arkansas Supplemental and Financial Information form is returned to our office by the student. Before departure for the United States, the student must present the I-20 Form and a valid passport to a U.S. consulate abroad in order to obtain a Student Visa (F-1). If a sponsor or government requests J-1 status for the student, and has not made special arrangements for the visa, we will issue an IAP-66 form requesting a Certificate of Eligibility for Exchange Visit or (J-1) status.

Admission decisions are based upon a variety of factors, including the applicant's academic record, professional experience, English language proficiency, a demonstrated interest in the legal problems of agriculture and related career plans. Intensive English language studies are offered by the Spring International Language Center located on campus at the University of Arkansas. No financial assistance is available to fund English language studies.

The University of Arkansas is committed to the policy of providing educational opportunities to all qualified students regardless of their economic or social status and will not discriminate on the basis of disability, race, color, sex, creed, veteran's status, age, marital or parental status, sexual orientation or national origin.
