

Course Title	Professor	Course Description
Banking Law	S. Foster	This class is designed to provide students with a detailed overview of banking law. Subjects we will cover include the history of banking regulation, the business of banking, banking regulation, bank assets, consumer lending, bank liabilities and capital, supervision, expansion and mergers, trust and fiduciary standards, capital markets, derivatives, and international banking.
Interviewing, Counseling, and Negotiation	C. Kelley	This course provides instruction and practice in interviewing and counseling clients and in negotiating on behalf of clients in a wide variety of situations. In addition to teaching strategies and techniques, the course will provide extensive practice through the use of simulated exercises. When you complete this course, you should be familiar with the most common interviewing, counseling, and negotiating techniques and strategies, and you should be able to implement those techniques and strategies in many different situations that lawyers face.
Judicial Clerkship	B. Rucker	In Judicial Clerkship, students will learn the role, duties, expectations, and importance of judicial law clerks; learn how to seek out such positions in the Arkansas state and Federal system; understand how to communicate with a judge's law clerk effectively and ethically; explain the difference between writing that advocates for a particular sides as lawyers versus writing to inform a judge of all sides of a legal or factual issue as a law clerk; prepare a concise Bench Memorandum; and prepare for actual court as if they were judicial law clerks.—
Judicial Clerkship Practicum	B. Rucker	TBD
Legal Writing for First Year Practitioners	M. Alsbrook	A one-credit course focused on legal writing from a practice perspective. Topics will include e-mail etiquette, assignment strategies, editing techniques, and a final focused on drafting a motion and brief in support of your request to the court.
Oral Argument Workshop	K. Eaton	This course will focus on building and refining students' oral advocacy and critical thinking skills. Students will have frequent opportunities to act as advocates and judges using pretrial motions and appellate briefs from actual federal court cases.
Professional Responsibility	D. Weatherby	Role of the lawyer as counselor, advocate, and public servant; obligation to society of the individual lawyer and the profession as a whole; ethical problems of the profession; representation of the unpopular cause and the desirable client, lawyers' obligation to law reform; lawyer and the press; the lawyer in public service; the aspects of law office management.
Solo and Small Firm Practice	M. Alsbrook	Thinking that you might want to open your own law firm in the future? Learn strategies for integrating your legal skills, professional responsibilities and business goals while demonstrating your responsbleness and effectiveness to your community.
Survey of Civil Immunity	K. Eaton	This survey course will introduce students to several types of civil immunity law that can trap the unwary plaintiff (and plaintiff's attorney). Because of the survey nature of the course, we will primarily focus on three areas of the law: qualified immunity, state sovereign immunity, and tribal sovereign immunity. Although these topics may be covered in other doctrinal courses, the course's focus on this limited universe of topics will allow for a deeper dive into the doctrinal development and policy implications of the doctrines we will study.
ULW: Advanced Contract Drafting	P. Pesek	Advanced Contract Drafting is an upper-level course that teaches basic practical contract skills by having students work “in role” as lawyers undertaking various contract drafting tasks in a series of exercises. The course will be taught by an Adjunct Professor, who is a retired General Counsel with significant experience in drafting, editing, and negotiating thousands of contracts. While the skills taught will be basic, they will also be translatable to more sophisticated contracts. The course will feature lectures and class discussions regarding the various components of a contract, and in-class contract issue-spotting and drafting exercises, with an emphasis on the drafting exercises. Students will learn how to structure and format each type of contract, write to maximize brevity and clarity, and allocate risk between the parties to the agreement. All drafting exercises will receive feedback from the instructor. Grading will be on the basis of the written drafting assignments and class participation.
