

Advanced Torts

The course will cover defamation, the rights of privacy (including informational privacy) and publicity, harm to family relationships, malicious prosecution, business torts including interference with contract, fiduciary breach, and fraud, and related topics.

The course is open to all second- and third-year law students. An examination will be given. Graduate students in other disciplines may take the course with the instructor's permission.

The casebook is Dobbs & Bublick, Advanced Torts: Economic and Dignitary Torts (Thomson/West 2006). I will supplement the text with other materials.